In mei 1866 schrijft Leo Tolstoj het woord einde onder een manuscript dat generaties lezers in zijn ban zal krijgen. Aanvankelijk heet het boek Eind goed, al goed, later wordt de titel veranderd in Oorlog en vrede. Het verhaal eindigt met een dubbel huwelijk, en niet met de dood van de grote held vorst Andrej Bolkonski. Delen van het manuscript worden gepubliceerd in tijdschriften en de auteur doet verscheidene pogingen het boek gedrukt te krijgen. Pas drie jaar later zal het boek verschijnen. Deze editie is de oerversie, in de prachtige Nederlandse vertaling van Peter Zeeman en Dieuwke Papma. Deze Oorlog en vrede is ongeveer half zo lang als de gecanoniseerde versie, ontbeert de lange uitweidingen over geschiedfilosofie, bevat vele andere scènes en verwickelingen en leidt naar een geheel ander einde. Met de uitgave van deze oorspronkelijke versie zag een nieuwe, frisse Tolstoj het licht.

This book takes a fresh look at development communication in the Indian context. Charting its international history and discussing the Millennium Development Goals (MDGs) that evolved as part of the phenomenon of globalization, it links the history of India's development with development communication and discusses the role of media in disseminating information to the public.

Development Communication in Practice: India and the Millennium Development Goals analyzes seven Indian newspapers for a period of seven months and evaluates the extent to which development issues are addressed in them. The findings reveal an under-representation of development issues in the media which, the author argues, needs to be addressed. Reviewing recent concepts on poverty measurement and the MDGs set forth by global scholars such as Jagdish Bhagwati, Amartya Sen and Joseph Stiglitz, the book acknowledges the importance of information technology, literacy and education in the process of development. This book will be a good resource for economists, development communication practitioners, government officials dealing in media and communication and students and researchers working in the fields of communication and media studies and journalism.
